Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 3, 4, 7-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Halsworth.

Halsworth discloses a handle (12), a pulley connectable to a weight stack or resistance machine (fig. 2, col. 1, lines 56-63), and a cord which passes through said pulley and is connected to said handle at two points separated along a length of said handle (fig. 1), said handle being freely rotatable about a longitudinal axis passing through the handle and being freely shiftable, movable or turnable with said cord passing through said pulley during shifting, moving or turning (fig. 1).

As for claims 3, 4, 7-12, Halsworth discloses the cord is rubber (col. 1, lines 56-63), said cord is or includes a metal cable (col. 1, lines 56-63), handle includes a golf club grip (col. 1, lines 56-63), portion of a softball or baseball bat (col. 1, lines 56-63), said handle includes at least a portion of a hockey stick (col. 1, lines 56-63), at least a portion of a tennis racket (col. 1, lines 56-63), at least one of said two points where said cord and said handle are connected includes a member which encircles said handle and permits rotation of said handle within said member (fig. 11), where said cord and said handle are connected includes washer assembly which fits within said handle and permits rotation of said handle relative to said washer assembly (fig. 1).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Halsworth in view of Masters.

Halsworth does not disclose the cord is made of rope.

Masters discloses a cord made of rope (abstract).

It would have been obvious to use Masters rope with Halsworth cord, as it is well known to use a rope in a swing training device, as taught by Masters, for providing a link to the resistance device.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Halsworth in view of Perry.

Halsworth does not disclose a protective sheath positioned over said cord at one or more locations.

Perry discloses a protective sheath positioned over said cord at one or more locations (col. 2, lines 46-49).

It would have been obvious to use Perry's sheath with Halsworth cord, as it is well known as taught by Perry, to use a sheath to protect the cord, in a swing training device.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Halsworth in view of Liberatore.

Halsworth does not specifically disclose a swivel connector associated with said pulley.

Liberatore discloses a swivel connector associated with said pulley (fig. 3).

It would have been obvious to use Liberatore's swivel connector with Halsworth pulley, as it is well known as taught by Liberatore, to use a swivel connector in a swing training device, for providing freedom of movement, and as Halsworth uses swivel connectors on the training apparatus.

Claims 13-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Halsworth in view of Oppenheimer.

Halsworth does not disclose the handle is in the form of a ball.

Oppenheimer discloses a handle is in the form of a ball (col. 1, lines 18-25).

It would have been obvious to use Oppenheimer's ball with Halsworth training device, as it is well known as taught by Oppenheimer to use a ball as a handle, for providing a training method.

Oppenheimer does not specifically disclose a football, however it would have been obvious to use a football with Oppenheimer, as Oppenheimer lends itself to multiple training devices (col. 1, lines 18-25)

Oppenheimer further discloses said ball is a bowling ball (col. 1, lines 18-25).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Glenn Richman whose telephone number is 571-272-4981. The examiner can normally be reached on Mon-Thurs.
